WYFC: We Support Homegrown Energy, Not Out-Of-State Waste

Wyoming is the backbone of America's energy economy. That's why we fight to take the government's boot off of the neck of our energy producers.

It's also why we support President Trump's agenda to unleash American energy independence by promoting coal exports, building domestic coal-fueled power plants, expediting permitting, supporting extractive activities, and rolling back woke regulatory schemes.

Wyoming must continue to be a leader in proven energy production, not settle as a dumping ground for nuclear waste from other states. California billionaires insist on saddling our landscapes with their windmills, their solar panels, and now their radioactive casks.

We support homegrown energy, not out-of-state waste subsidized to the tune of $25 million in taxpayer dollars.

The Trump Administration's thoughtful guidance on nuclear acknowledges that the treatment of nuclear waste is one of the most difficult problems in the nuclear supply chain. Rather than follow President Trump's lead, which includes a 240-day study on nuclear waste storage, these out-of-state companies are attempting to force their hazardous scraps down the throats of the people of Wyoming in violation of state law.

Fantastical promises of huge revenues to the State, overt gaslighting, and outright lies aren't what we use to craft policy.

As the Code of the West reminds us, some things aren't for sale.
